JAKE ROSENFELD MODERATES TOWN HALL PANEL ON PROSPERITY

Submitted by Ulrika S. O'brien on May 23, 2013 - 5:52pm

RECLAIMING PROSPERITY: INEQUALITY & THE FUTURE OF WORK

Thursday, May 23, 2013, 7:30 – 9:00pm - Downstairs at Town Hall; enter on Seneca Street. Admission $5.

In the first event of a new and ongoing Civics thread focused on rebuilding economic security and prosperity for working people, David Madland, director of the American Worker Project at the Center for American Progress; Annette Bernhardt, co-director of the National Employment Law Project; and Dorian Warren, assistant professor in the School of International and Public Affairs at Columbia University, discuss the current crisis of income inequality, the low-wage recovery, and economic and financial prospects for working people. Jake Rosenfeld, Assistant Professor in the University of Washington Department of Sociology, moderates. Presented as part of the Town Hall Civics series with Working Washington. Series supported by The Boeing Company, the RealNetworks Foundation, and the True/Brown Foundation.

Tickets are $5 and can be purchased online or at the door. You can find more information about this event at Town Hall Seattle: http://townhallseattle.org/working-washington-inequality-the-future-of-work/.

People Involved: Jake Rosenfeld
News Category: Conferences, Presentations, and Lectures, Faculty and Staff
Related Fields: Economic Sociology, Labor, Social Stratification/Inequality, Wealth, Work and Occupations

Source URL: https://soc.washington.edu/news/2013/05/23/jake-rosenfeld-moderates-town-hall-panel-prosperity