#SOCTWITTER: SOCIOLOGY DOMINATES AMONG US WOMEN'S SOCCER TEAM!

Submitted by Katherine Stovel on July 11, 2019 - 3:58pm

Four members of the World Cup winning US Women's National Team were sociology majors as undergrads! Congrats to Megan Rapinoe, Crystal Dunn, Abby Dahlkemper, & Rose Lavelle on their great play in the tournament. While none of these four went to the UW, soccer player and the UW's most recent Marshall Scholar Havana McElvaine graduated with honors from the UW Sociology Department in 2017.

Want to learn more about sports from a sociological perspective? Kyle Crowder will be teaching Sociology of Sport in the Winter of 2020.