SUPPORT US

The Department of Sociology faces the challenge of maintaining excellence and a position of leadership in education, research, and service. In order to meet that challenge, we depend upon the contributions and commitment of alumni and friends of the Department.

The University of Washington receives less than one third of its funding from the State of Washington. That is why private support is critical to our success. Please help us help students, advance research and shape the future. There are many opportunities for giving that can launch a promising career, support research on critical issues, and reward excellence in teaching and research.

Use the form below to pledge your support, or visit this page to learn more about department funds and recognition levels.
