In this course, we will make use of a wide range of resources, including a tour of a prison, to learn about the implications of mass incarceration for population health and health disparities. We will examine the impact of incarceration on the health of prisoners and individuals post-release, as well as their families, partners, children, and communities.

For more info, contact instructor Marie Neumann
Email: neumannnm@uw.edu